Department Of Zoology

Introduction

The Department of Zoology was established in 2020. In the beginning, the department faced many challenges, including limited resources and infrastructure. However, with dedication and continuous efforts, these challenges were successfully overcome. Today, the department is progressing rapidly, providing quality education and research opportunities to students in various fields of animal science.

The Department of Zoology is dedicated to the scientific study of animals, their biology, diversity, behavior, ecology, and evolution. It aims to provide students with a strong foundation in animal sciences, equipping them with knowledge and skills to understand the complexity of life and address modern challenges in biodiversity conservation, environmental sustainability, and applied biological research. Equipped with modern laboratories students are encouraged to explore various branches of zoology including physiology, genetics, entomology, fisheries, wildlife, and environmental biology, a rich zoological museum, and access to field stations, the department promotes hands-on learning and encourages participation in interdisciplinary research. Our experienced faculty members are engaged in cutting-edge research and actively collaborate with national and international institutions to address current challenges in animal biology and conservation.

The Department of Zoology remains committed to academic excellence, innovation, and the development of future scientists and environmental stewards.

Success is the result of dedication, perseverance, and continuous hard work. We are delighted to celebrate the students who have been awarded laptops by the Chief Minister in recognition of their academic excellence and commitment to learning. This achievement reflects their determination to excel and their passion for education.
